DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1,3,7,11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Chun-Te et al 5,868,012. Chun-Te et al teach a padlock casing 10, shackle 20, combination locking mechanism 12 for the second end of the shackle, a latching tube 15/153 within the casing and a stop member 14 integral therewith, with a hole to receive the first end of the shackle. The locking mechanism further comprises a shoulder 24 on the second end of the shackle such that when the locking mechanism is actuated the second end of the shackle can move axially.

3. Claims 1,3,4,6,8,10-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Smith 1,755,521. Smith teaches a padlock casing 5, shackle 8, combination locking mechanism 47 for the second end of the shackle, a key lock pin tumbler cylinder latching tube 30 within the casing and a stop member 61 separate therefrom, with a hole and a stop block (between the blocking arms of 61) to receive the first end of the shackle. The locking mechanism further comprises a shoulder between holes 16,18 on the second end of the shackle such that when the locking mechanism is actuated the second end of the shackle can move axially. Smith also teaches the use of teeth in the form of link pins 86 for providing the operative connection (link 80) between the latch tube 30/27 and stop member 61.

4. Claims 1,8,11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yang 6,539,761. Yang teaches a padlock casing 1, shackle 2, combination locking mechanism 4 for the second end of the shackle, a keyed lock cylinder latching tube 3 within the casing and a stop member 34 separate therefrom. The locking mechanism further comprises a shoulder 231 on the second end of the shackle such that when the locking mechanism is actuated the second end of the shackle can move axially.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3676

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 5,6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yang 6,539,761. Yang teaches the key actuated lock cylinder 3 but fails to specify the type of cylinder lock. It is well known in the art to have key actuated lock cylinders comprising functionally equivalent disc tumblers or pin tumblers as desired. Accordingly, it would have been considered an obvious matter of design choice to provide the lock cylinder of Yang with either pin or disc tumblers as desired.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 2,9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Note the cited art to Yu especially.
